Psalm Five: Overcoming When Facing Unjust Confusion And Self-Doubt Due To Opposition (Psalm 5:1-12)

I. Introduction

- A. It is a part of life to face opposition to in life at work, school, ministry, recreation or home life. But what can make this experience especially difficult is the confusion or self-doubt that comes when the opponent unloads upon us accusations as to our motives, calling or methods of operation.
- B. Patricia Evans calls it crazy-making, the recipient of the opposition having "anxiety or fear of being crazy," "an internalized 'critical voice'" or "a growing self-doubt," The Verbally Abusive Relationship, p. 43.
- C. Psalm Five identifies this challenge and provides us the vehicle of handling the problem.

II. Overcoming When Facing Unjust Confusion And Self-Doubt Due To Opposition, Psalm 5:1-12.

- A. Verse 8 reveals that David had enough confusion and self-doubt from facing his opponents that he needed to request God's "gentle herding" of him like one would herd a frightened, confused animal!
  1. The KJV, NASB and NIV versions all translate Psalm 5:8a as "Lead me, O Lord . . .", but the Hebrew word for "Lead" here is naha, translated better as "gently lead/guide or even herd me out of trouble, O Lord," Theol. Wordbook of the Old Testament, Harris, Archer & Waltke, v. II, p. 568; B.D.B., Hebrew and English Lexicon, p. 634; Kittel, Biblia Hebraica, p. 979.
  2. The reason David uses this word is explained in the phrase, ". . . because of mine enemies" which displays that his enemies so oppressed David that he didn't know what to think or do!
- B. We thus break down the psalm into steps to take when our opponent has us confused and in self-doubt:
  1. Step One - Compare the degrees of righteousness we see in GOD and in the OPPONENT to begin to ascertain where the truth lies, Psalm 5:4-6 with 5:9.
    - a. To begin to handle his confusion, the psalmist focuses on the righteousness of GOD, recalling that GOD (1) takes no pleasure in evil (5:4), that (2) He cannot tolerate the boastful (5:5a) or (3) sinners (5:5b), that (4) He destroys liars (5:6a,c) and (5) the violent man (5:6b).
    - b. However, in contrast to a righteous GOD, David's opponents (1) do not speak words that are upright and thus true (5:9a), they (2) plan to destroy others in their thoughts (5:9b), they (3) destroy men by their words (5:9c) and (4) deceitfully use flattery to control others for their purposes (5:9d).
    - c. Consequently, David realizes that his opponents are wrong, a good starting point to handle being confused and full of self-doubt because of their efforts and words against him!
  2. Step Two - Based upon this conviction that somehow the opponents are wrong, pray for help, 5:1-2!
  3. Step Three - In praying, depend upon God's grace (lit., chesed in the Hebrew, v. 8a) in the position we have in Christ as believers, and make sure we are experientially cleansed of sin, Psalm 5:8a; 1 Jn. 1:9.
  4. Step Four - In praying, approach God with utmost respect for Him, knowing that God will not treat roughly those who may be acting wrongly due to confusion as they truly respect Him, Psalm 5:8b.
  5. Step Five - In praying, request these changes in the matter by God: (a) request God's "gentle leading" as we admit to God that we are confused by our opponent (and may be accidentally wrong), Psalm 5:8, and see "II,A,1-2" above! (b) Then request that God makes the direction we are to think and act ones that are obvious, or "straight before (our) face," Psalm 5:8b. (c) Request that ((a)) the opponents be declared guilty by God so that they are classified as rebels against Him (5:10d) ((b)) that their intrigues against us backfire upon them (5:10b) ((d)) so that they are neutralized from afflicting OTHER innocent people, Psalm 5:11-12. (d) Request that OTHERS who trust and love the Lord be protected by God from these opponents so that they can be joyful in Him, Psalm 5:11.

Lesson: When confused and full of self-doubt from facing an opponent who verbally and actively puts us into that state, (1) examine ourselves before GOD to make adjustments according to HIS authority and NOT according to the OPPONENT'S input, for we serve GOD, not the OPPONENT, cf. Gal. 1:10b; 1 Cor. 7:23; Rom. 14:3-4. (2) If we are RIGHT with GOD, in a spirit of humility, we should request divine clarity and protection for us and others from the ERRANT input from the opponent as that INPUT is DESTR UCTIVE against the WILL OF GOD, cf. Rom. 14:3-4! In this way, we remove ourselves from the temptation of again being confused by these verbal abusers!
